The Notice of Privacy Practices explains how White House Clinics (WHC) may use and disclose confidential health information that identifies me. By engaging in text message communications with WHC, I consent to let WHC use and disclose health information about me as described in the Notice of Privacy Practices. I can revoke my consent in writing at any time except to the extent that WHC has already relied on my consent. I consent to receive, on the cellular phone and/or other telephone number(s) that are provided to WHC or updated at a later time, text messages and/or telephone calls or other communications using live, artificial or prerecorded voices, automatic telephone dialing systems, or any other computer-aided technologies from WHC and its affiliates, clinical providers, and business associates, along with any billing services, collection agencies, agents, or other third parties who may act on their behalf. Such text messages and/or telephone calls may be related to any purpose, including those related to my account and/or the care rendered, including marketing messages/calls. I consent to receive communication by email or standard SMS messaging regarding various aspects of my medical care, which may include, but shall not be limited to, test results, prescriptions, appointments, and billing. I understand that email and standard SMS messaging are not confidential methods of communication and may be insecure. I understand this consent to communications is not required to receive services from WHC or any of the other authorized callers and that data usage and other charges may apply. I may revoke this consent to these communications at any time.
